

POLICY ZERO BURNING

Open burning is prohibited under ASEAN Zero Burning Policy (1999) and Declared Activity (Open Burning) 2003.

Naturally, all operating units hereby are required to adhere to the following matters immediately.

There is no open burning form in every operating unit except where it deems necessary with prior approval from the relevant authorities. It includes domestic waste, plantation waste, biomass or by-products produced by plantations and palm oil mill.

All types of waste should be disposed of properly through disposal methods such as, landfills, recycling or scheduled wastes.

Restricted open burning is permitted for cooking and religious purposes under proper supervision.
